Jeetesh Kathawaroo is the keynote speaker to book to ensure your audience is not put to sleep or bored to death by the typical keynote speaker. With Jeetesh, your audience will be motivated and inspired, while receiving valuable tools to help improve the bottom line.

Jeetesh calls himself the Reluctant Management Consultant, a title well earned and one that should make anyone searching for a good public speaker curious. His presentations as a key note speaker, conference speaker, event speaker, guest speaker and business speaker have been smash hits by combining intelligence, extensive experience – and a sense of humor.

But Jeetesh isn't a stand-up comedian in a business suit. He's a serious key note speaker who backs up the one-liners with a resume that is as impressive as it is lengthy. In nearly 15 years, he's effectively managed major transformation projects and cross functional teams in the insurance, financial services, petrochemical, pharmaceutical, mining and advertising industries. On three continents, no less.

TESTIMONIALS

"I love his use of really inclusive language that allowed the audience to really kind of move and be taken on the journey between the performing arts world and the business world. He did a great job and I wouldn't hesitate to recommend him as a speaker and I would be very happy for him to come back and do a longer talk."

Nike Jonah | Senior Diversity Officer | Decibel Performing Arts Showcase 2011

"Your presentation, content and execution of humour ensured that everyone enjoyed the final night of the conference and was very much appreciated by those representing all sides of this event."

Vasi Alford | Public Relations | District 74 - Toastmasters International | 2010 Laduma Maxicon
